

Hello

I'm writing to suggest a new title for your memoir and life-stories collection.

 The Reluctant Farmer: A Memoir of an Unexpected Journey

Author: Cathryn Wellner

ISBN-13: 978-1-7642854-0-7

Digital: 978-1-7642854-1-4

Paperback: 6 x 9 in; 152.4 x 228.6 mm

Available to libraries globally via IngramSpark distribution.

This memoir follows the author's move from city life to a working farm in British Columbia — a decade full of humour, livestock adventures, midlife reinvention, resilience, and the never-quite-predictable ways life unfolds. From midwifing ewes to dodging amorous camels, Wellner discovers that rural living is part chaos, part wonder, and often unintentionally hilarious. Funny, warm, and full of surprises, it makes readers laugh and sometimes ache, and many say it inspires reflection on second chances and starting over.

If this fits your collection, I'd be honoured to see it on your shelves.

Cathryn Wellner is living proof that life doesn't politely wind down with age—it gets funnier, messier, and infinitely more interesting. A storyteller and prolific writer, she has gathered tales from American cities, Canadian backroads, and her current life on the Australian coast. She can be contacted at her home in Adelaide, South Australia, 0478 641 186 or cjwellner@gmail.com, and can provide:

- digital copy
- book club discussion questions
- virtual author talk or Q&A

Thank you for supporting lifelong readers like me.
